COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Recently several complaints have been made regarding children riding bicycles on sidewalks. Attention is called to the following ordinance: "Article 3, Section 1. No person shall be allowed to ride a bicycle on any sidewalk or footpath in general use within the limits of said Town. Each bicycle used in the limits of the Town shall be equipped with a bell or gong, and at night, with a light. It would be appreciated if parents of children having bicycles would caution them of this ordinance."

On Monday of this week Mr. Vachon of the Gould family made a trip to the Maine Publicity Bureau at Kittery, conveying notices and arranging the display. Many thanks are extended to him for his interest. Following are the persons or firms who are contributing to the display this year: Gould Academy, Phil Chadbourne, Bethel Inn, Bethel Chamber of Commerce, Hanover Dowel Co., Friday Gift Shop, and Ernest Angvine.

Tearing of various streets and roads has been in progress since Thursday of last week. Very good results have been obtained due to warm weather and no interference from rain.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

MANY IN FOREIGN DELEGATIONS AS NTL OPENS SUNDAY

This year marks the eleventh anniversary of the founding of the National Training Laboratory in Group Development, held each year at Gould Academy, Bethel. To accommodate the increasingly large number of persons who apply each year for admission to this pioneer laboratory in human relations and leadership training, this year, as in 1956, two sessions will be held: the one now in progress began Sunday, June 16, and will close officially at noon on Friday, July 5. The second session will start July 14, and end on Friday, August 2.

The delegate body comes from such fields as religion, public health, education, labor, welfare, industry, government, and the armed forces, and includes representatives from such distant places as Ceylon, England, Hawaii, Holland, the Netherlands Antilles and Pakistan, plus the usual large delegation from Canada, Puerto Rico, and from twenty-eight states in the United States.

Because of the widespread development of the National Training Laboratories and regional laboratories throughout the country and throughout the year, the increased need for advanced training for former participants in these laboratories has become more and more evident. As a result of these needs, National Training Laboratories is expanding the Alumni Program at its Summer Sessions this year.

The Trainer Development Program will provide opportunity for a potential human relations trainer to participate in a special analytical way in the regular training groups of the Laboratory to participate in special clinics exploring training theory and methods, to practice specific skills of training, and to plan and conduct a one-week Laboratory session on the campus of the University of Maine immediately following the First Laboratory Session. Those participating in the Trainer Development Program will be provided alternative opportunities for practice.

The Alumni Program for Staff and Action leaders, drawn from former participants in National Training Laboratories and regional laboratories is an innovation this year. Its purpose is to provide additional training in the skills and knowledge of helping individuals, groups, organizations and communities toward needed change and improvement in their operations.

A variety of analytic and practice experiences has been devised to help members of this group increase their leadership skills.

Both units of the Alumni Training Program will take part in certain aspects of the regular Laboratory Session and at strategic points will assist in planning and carrying out certain of the Laboratory activities for regular delegates.

Among the more than thirty staff members for the 1957 Summer Sessions who have participated in previous National Training Laboratory in Group Development summer laboratory sessions are: Richard Bechard, Conference Counselors, New York City; Kenneth Benne, Boston University; Leland Bradford, National Education Association, Washington, D. C.; Jack B. Gibbs, University of Delaware; Kenneth Horrold, Columbia University; Murray Horvath, New York University; Gertrude Hutchins, Bethel; Donald Klein, Human Relations Service of Wellesley, Mass.; Ronald Lippitt, University of Michigan; Matthew Myers, Gould Academy, Bethel; Donald Nyles, Seattle Public Schools; Virginia Stacy, National Training Laboratories, Washington, D. C.; Alleen Wallis, National Training Laboratories, Washington, D. C.; and Edith Whitefield.

LAKE CHRISTOPHER CONSERVATION COURSE OPENS 24TH

Lawrence Stuart, Executive Director of the Conservation Education Foundation of Maine, announced plans for opening the Christopher Lake Conservation Summer School, in a speech given at the Federated Garden Clubs of Maine convention held last week at Poland Springs.

Stuart outlined the program at Christopher Lake, which is scheduled to get underway June 24 with fourteen elementary teachers in attendance for the first of three summer sessions. According to Stuart, "Maine teachers will have the opportunity to study first-hand the state's natural resources so that they can take back to their schools an understanding of Maine's conservation problems and integrate the material in their courses." He stressed the fact that numerous field trips will be taken, including visits to the mines of Newry, Swan Island soil conservation and game management programs, Mt. Blue State Park, and tours of industry in the Rumford area.

Plans for the conservation education program at the beautiful summer estate on Lake Christopher in Oxford County, donation to the Foundation by Mrs. Lillian Waterhouse of Portland, have resulted from a cooperative effort on the part of many state agencies interested in conservation.

All phases of Maine's natural resource picture will be covered in the program and graduate and undergraduate credits will be given.

ACROSS the DESK

From the Lincoln Times, Lincoln, N.C. If you are planning to kill some of your fellow citizens in an automobile in the near future, or even if you are not planning to, it would be wise to heed the following facts, which have just been made available in a timely booklet on highway deaths in the United States.

The record for 1956 is not a very pretty one. There were 40,000 deaths on the highways of the United States last year, 2,000 more than in 1955.

There were 2,300,000 injuries in 1956, 210,000 more than in 1955. There were 223,000 pedestrian casualties in 1956, 2,000 more than in 1955.

An interesting addition to the statistical list is the fact that almost forty-two per cent of the 40,000 deaths in 1956 occurred on the weekends. And, it should be noted that eighty per cent of the accidents occurred on dry roads.

In clear weather, and better than four out of five of them resulted from driver error.

The worst time for automobile accidents, figured in the hours of the day, is apparently between four in the afternoon and eight in the evening. This is the time when many people are going home from work, perhaps in a hurry, and later on, when they are going out for the night. In these hours, about twenty-five per cent of the deaths and injuries occurred in 1956.

If you are interested in the manner in which people are killed on the highways, you will be interested to know that last year, more than 15,000 persons were killed in automobile collisions. Only 10,000 died in non-collision accidents. Almost as many, 8,000, pedestrians were killed.

Accidents involving automobiles and a fixed object accounted for 4,130 deaths and those involving a train accounted for 1,390 deaths. It is somewhat surprising to learn that 400 deaths resulted from collisions between automobiles and bicycles.

And, finally, injuries in 1956 soared to 1,000,000 from automobile collisions, while a considerably smaller figure, 200,000, were injured in non-collision accidents.

Some 223,000 pedestrians were injured in collisions involving automobiles and a fixed object. Over 12,000 persons were injured in accidents involving automobiles and bicycles, and some 7,100 were injured as a result of a collision between an automobile and a train.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

It is one thing to talk about the need for cutting the federal budget — and a very different thing indeed to present a budget program for doing so. The budget is an extraordinarily complex affair, and comparatively few people have the background of knowledge necessary to making a detailed and intelligent analysis of what can and cannot be done to reduce it.

Senator Bridges of New Hampshire has now offered that kind of analysis. He begins with praise of the President for his budget of 1957-58, which reversed the runaway spending of the Truman administration. The current budget, however, struck him very differently. It seemed political that at an all-time high in prosperity, an all-time high in employment with Federal debt at such a precarious balance and that the cost of government should be absorbing such a large proportion of the profits of our labor. It was in this spirit that he made an intensive study to see how the budget may be cut.

Without in any way weakening our defense posture or without disrupting vital services.

Senator Bridges' program calls for reducing the President's 1957-58 budget by a minimum of $10 billion. He is not alone in this. First of all, he points out that a percentage cut across the board is a more basic approach to the problem.

1957-58 is the nature of sacred obligations which must be met regardless of anything.

In the area of appropriations for such items as the commodity credit corporation, the agricultural conservation program, and grants to the states he feels that $500 million can be cut.

Next he recommends that the public works program be cut back to the 1956 level of spending, which would save $75 million without affecting the federal highway or the federal airways programs.

The defense budget — proposed at $38 billion by the President — is by far the biggest of all. Senator Bridges thinks that a fairly modest cut should be made here — $750 million initially, and perhaps rising to $1 billion later.

He points out that if the foreign aid budget is reduced by the same percentage that has been applied to the 1956 aid bill, it will be $600 million. He also feels that an additional $250 million can now be pared without damage.

Finally, he is confident — from 21 years experience on the Appropriations Committee — that at least $500 million can be saved in miscellaneous cuts.

It will come as a surprise to many to learn that actual cuts — some agreed to by the Executive branch — of $23 billion now are in sight. That is more than two-thirds of the way towards Senator Bridges' goal of $3 billion. He concludes: "Now is the time for everyone to do his share to make the budget cutting victory a real one. The future of this nation demands it."

In my testimony for the legislation I hope to convince the Committee of the need to counteract the harmful effects of surplus cotton exports on our textile industry.

Billboard Control — The House Commerce Committee has passed a bill to restrict billboards, unless it was designed to cause the ultimate defeat of the entire bill.

It will be a great disappointment to millions of Americans if Congress does not act to protect their investment in the nation's highways from the billboard menace.

Though Scripture does not indicate one way or the other on this point, the characters of the two men teach us much.

"Along the national system of interstate highways, it seems to me that we need to be free from a 'canyon of signboards.' I hope you are successful in getting something done on this very important matter."

I was optimistic when I first introduced my anti-billboard legislation. Letters of support poured in from people throughout the country. Editorial endorsement was almost unanimous.

But the outdoor advertising interests have waged a tireless campaign to discredit such legislation. Now the Senate Public Roads Subcommittee has loaded down its bill with an amendment to add 7,000 miles to the Interstate system.

I am unable to ascertain why this proposal was attached to a measure to restrict billboards, unless it was designed to cause the ultimate defeat of the entire bill.

It will be a great disappointment to millions of Americans if Congress does not act to protect their investment in the nation's highways from the billboard menace.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, June 20
Read John 3:14-21.
God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. (Romans 8:3).

Gloria had given vent to her temper by screaming while she tossed her bedding off her bed and tossed it on the floor.

Now, still pouting and miserable, she sat down on the porch beside her mother. Neither of them spoke. Finally, Gloria leaned her head against her mother's shoulder and said, "Does God love me Mum-mum? Does He love me even now?"

"Yes," was the quiet reply. "God loves you very much, even now, but He doesn't love the way you have acted and what you have done."

A few minutes more passed. Then

Gloria crept within the circle of her mother's arm and cuddled up close to her.

After waiting a while longer, the mother looked down at the little daughter and said, "Shall we go in now and fix up your bed again?" Looking up with a smile, Gloria said, "Yes, and I'm sorry for what I did and how I acted."

Prayer
"Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy lovingkindness. . . . Hide thy face from my sins, and blot out all mine iniquities. Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." In the Redeemer's name. Amen.

and support of the Lake Christopher program. To date 12 garden clubs have contributed scholarship funds which enable teachers to attend tuition-free.

Also stressed was the fact that future uses of the Christopher Lake property may in time include the training of youth groups and adult organizations interested in conservation.

Construction of additional sleeping quarters on the property is currently underway, and as the physical plant is expanded the program will be intensified to include larger groups of teachers. It is expected that a double cabin, capable of sleeping 16 people, will be ready for the June 24 opening. The main lodge will be used to house faculty members and others connected with the program.

Faculty members for this summer's program include Professors George Davis, University of Maine; John Mudge, Farmington State College, Madison.

Teachers College, and Robert Miller of Gorham State Teachers College. Members of the various state agencies interested in conservation will assist the faculty by providing demonstrations, conducting field trips, and providing lectures. A typical day for example, will be when the State Forestry Department will provide instruction on Maine's forest resources, including tree identification in the field and discussions on management.

The first group of teachers to attend the workshop include: Miss Alice Austin, Bath; Mrs. Elizabeth Dupliss, Auburn; Miss Helene Decker, Norway; Mrs. Ruth Garfield, Cape Elizabeth; Mrs. Adeline Forbes, Portland; Carl Hellsburg, Waterville; Kenneth Johnson, Sanford; Mrs. Harriet McCroary, Winthrop; Nathan Mitchell, Augusta; Miss Peggy-Lee Rayan, Portland; Richmond Roderick, Bethel; Elmer Walker, Clinton; and Gerald John Mudge, Farmington State College, Madison.

ABBOTT AMONG LEADERS ESTIMATING LOG PILE

Two New Hampshire men and a third from Bethel, Maine, topped a field of some 150 woodlot owners from Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont in estimating the footage in a million-board-foot pile of saw logs. The competition was one of the features of an all-day program embracing a three-mile tramp through woodlands and a mill-inspection trip at Berlin.

Theodore Natty of Concord won first honors in the wood-estimating competition, with Leland Farrington of Conway, N. H., taking second place and Carroll Abbott of West Bethel taking third honors. Natty guessed within 12,000 feet of the footage in a 1,678,435-foot pile.

Included in the tour of forest areas was a 21-acre plantation of pine and spruce, planted by Brown, Board Chairman Laurence F. Whittemore of Brown Company in 1933, and recently thinned by the company for pulpwood.

"Brown Company is carrying out a continuing program on this plantation," Vice President C. S. Herr told the group.

Our boys visited West Paris last Tuesday evening and won their first game of the new season, 21-2. York and Merrill were the starting battery for the locals and did a fine job allowing only two hits in five innings. Some of our leading hitters were McAllister with three for four and Don Rice and DeRochia with three hits out of five runs to the plate. Angeline also hit a long triple in the 6th inning.

HOW TO SELL YOUR HOUSE

No other merchandise is subjected to such critical inspection as a house. It must look attractive to sell. Here are some ways to make your house salable, according to the editors of "Changing Times," the Real Estate Magazine.

See that every part of the structure is sound and that all mechanical equipment works. Even a sticking drawer speaks poorly of the house and suggests hidden faults. Up-to-date kitchens and bathrooms count most. Experts say you get back money spent improving these rooms.

Brighten up with new paint and paper even if the paper redecorates everything the day he moves in. Also wash the floor beds, frills, the shades and patch the lawn, especially in front. Lending prospects out of their cars is half the battle.

Get rid of trash and clutter. Straighten up the closets so that they look spacious. Borrow furniture if necessary to dress up underfurnished rooms. And when prospects are coming, see that every room is picked up and turned on its side to give the place a happy, comfortable look.

Fixing up costs money, of course. But spending on outside pays off.

THE BIG SCHOOL PROBLEM

Several steps, the liberal-minded editor of current affairs, recently made a little list of some school problems. He was motivated by the fact that the federal government provides funds for children's education.

At the beginning of the year, Mr. Aiken was inclined to agree with the proposal that at the end of the year the federal government should provide funds for children's education.

One reason for that is that the school situation is so serious in many parts of the country that it is not only a problem for the future but a present one.

Another is that if the federal government does more on the school situation, it is up to the state to do the same.

Still another is that there is a feeling that the federal government should be more active in the school situation.

Mr. Aiken came away from this with a feeling that the federal government should be more active in the school situation.

He said that the federal government should be more active in the school situation.

MINERAL PUBLICATION NOW RELEASED BY STATE DEPT.

The first of a series of publications listing the occurrences of various minerals in Maine is expected today by the Geological Division of the Maine Department of Economic Development.

Compiled by John R. Rand, state geologist, the booklet titled "Maine Pegmatite Mines, Prospects, and Associated Minerals" is expected to be of assistance to persons and firms interested in developing and utilizing Maine's mineral resources. It lists 184 pegmatite occurrences in the state in which are found feldspar, quartz, mica, beryl, spodumene, tourmaline, and other minerals.

Rand said that the present publication, and others to follow, will mark the first time that known Maine mineral deposits have been completely listed.

The booklet will be distributed free of charge for 50 days. After that, in line with legislation, a charge to cover printing and handling costs will be made.

To be of further service Rand said that his office will also establish a sales agency for U. S. government maps, charts, and other publications specifically concerned with geology and other earth features in Maine.

THE PROPOSED 23rd AMENDMENT

A proposed 23rd amendment to the Constitution of the United States, known as the Gurney amendment, consists of one clear sentence: "The government of the United States shall not engage in any business, commercial, financial, or industrial enterprise except as specified in the Constitution."

The possibilities within that simple statement of principle are literally enormous.

The government has billions upon billions of dollars invested in business enterprises of many kinds, all of which are performing functions that can and should be handled by private enterprise. These so-called businesses could be sold, and the money used to reduce the national debt, or to cut taxes, or both.

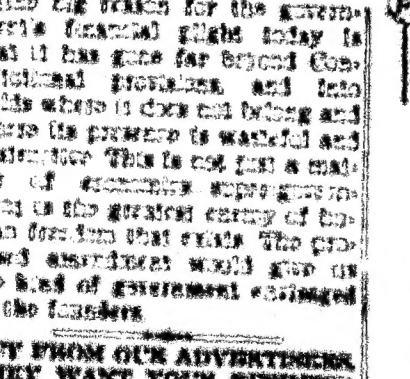

But that is only the beginning. Government business enterprises are everywhere, in an age in which business corporations pay up to 52 per cent of all their profits in federal taxes alone. On top of that, it is common for government business enterprises to operate at a loss, which means that they must be subsidized by all the taxpayers. Once they were sold to private enterprise, the subsidies would end and they would become major taxpayers. The gain to the nation over the years would run into tens of billions.

One big reason for the government's financial plight today is that it has gone far beyond Constitutional provisions and into fields where it does not belong and where the pressure is wasteful and destructive. This is not just a matter of economic mismanagement, it is the greatest enemy of the man for whom the Constitution was framed.

The proposed amendment would give us the kind of government envisaged by the founders.
